Dedication

This dissertation is dedicated to my family, especially my parents Clarence Henry Bennett and Margaret Thelma Bennett. Whether family by birth or family by my own choosing, you know who you are and how valuable to me your love and support have been and will continue to be throughout my life. It is also dedicated to the many friends I had along the way who did not allow me to take the easy way out, but helped me battle to finish the task. I will not try to list my family and friends by name in fear I may leave someone out. You know who you are.

Acknowledgements

I would like to acknowledge the support and expertise provided to me by my dissertation committee: Neal Krause, Cathleen Connell, Ruth Dunkle, and Arline Geronimus. I wish to acknowledge the overall support of the Health Behavior Health Management faculty whose persistence of support enabled the completion of this dissertation despite my many health complications.

There are insufficient words to express my gratefulness to my mentor of 24 years, Jersey Liang. Needless to say, his support continues to mean the world to me. I would also like to thank my friend Renee Lawrence who, amongst many other things, opened my eyes to the study of aging. Finally, thanks are due to Dr. Robert Winfield without whom I may have never survived to see this day.
